

Gracechurch Historical Dancers, based in North Shropshire, perform dances from the Tudor period to the Regency era in historically accurate handmade costumes. They are accompanied by live music from their own very talented ensemble, on woodwind and strings appropriate to the Georgian era.

They have entertained audiences as varied as international students at a Summer school, shoppers at Ellesmere Christmas Market and local community groups.

They are already looking forward to dancing to celebrate St George's Day in Oswestry and for a community group in Cheswardine later in April. Further events, including other National Trust performances are in development and details will be shared on the Group's website and social media in due course.

To book the group, or for further details, please contact:

*Hilary Evans - 07966 658455
or see our website:
www.gracechurchdancers.co.uk*

Gracechurch Historical Dancers, based in North Shropshire, perform dances from the Tudor period to the Regency era in historically accurate handmade costumes. They are accompanied by live music from their own very talented ensemble, on woodwind and strings appropriate to the Georgian era.

They have entertained audiences as varied as international students at a Summer school, shoppers at Ellesmere Christmas Market and local community groups.

They are already looking forward to dancing to celebrate St George's Day in Oswestry and for a community group in Cheswardine later in April. Further events, including other National Trust performances are in development and details will be shared on the Group's website and social media in due course.

To book the group, or for further details, please contact:

*Hilary Evans - 07966 658455
or see our website:
www.gracechurchdancers.co.uk*